Marie McDonald Claims Men Sought $80,000 In Ransom

ENCINO, Calif. (AP)—Marie McDonald, "The Body" of filmland fame, says that an $80,000 ransom was set by the two swarthy men who, she told police, kidnaped her.

The glamorous blonde actress, wearing a white nightgown, burst into tears twice as she told a news conference in her bedroom yesterday that the men said they hoped to ransom her for $20,000 each from these four persons:

Actor Michael Wilding, estranged husband of actress Elizabeth Taylor and Miss McDonald's escort in recent weeks.

Shoe manufacturer Harry Karl, twice married and twice divorced from Miss McDonald.

Mrs. Marie Tuboni, her mother.

Harold Plant, her business manager.

The two men called Karl and her mother, she said, and dialed the telephone so she could talk to Wilding and Plant. Ransom was not mentioned in any of the calls.

"They wanted to build up worry with each call so that they would pay the ransom," Miss McDonald, flanked by two attorneys, told newsmen in the same bedroom from which she said she was abducted.

After she disappeared Thursday night, male callers phoned Karl and Mrs. Tuboni and Miss McDonald phoned Wilding, Plant and movie columnist Harrison Carroll.

She said the men forced her to leave with them by threatening her sleeping children with a gun. She said she was taken to a house in the Los Angeles area where she was held most of Friday. The men gave her whiskey and pills, she said.

"I hid them in the hollow of my cheek and later got rid of them," she said. "They apparently thought the pills had knocked me out." It was then, she said, that she phoned Carroll.

She burst into tears as she told newsmen how her abductors had hit her "more than once." She cried again when a reporter asked her, "Why?"

One of her attorneys, Norman Brand, said:

"Marie, you already have given that statement to police."

After she was found on the desert near Indio Friday night, police questioned her at an Indio

Cranmer Files For Third Term Bid

Seeking a third term nomination, Mayor Dean B. Cranmer filed his petition with the county board of elections Saturday.

A Democrat, the mayor is the first candidate in the county to file for the May 7 primaries. He was given certificate No. 1 by Election Board Clerk Frank O'Hanlon.

Cranmer is serving his second term as Salem's mayor, having first been elected in 1953 over William Bodendorfer, a Republican, and again in 1955 over Lloyd Gordon, an Independent.

The deadline for candidates to file for the Republican and Democratic primaries is Feb. 6.

No other prospective municipal candidates are known to be circulating their petitions. Elsewhere in the county Mayor Arnold Devon of East Liverpool and Paul Merwin of East Palestine have announced they would seek the Republican nomination for mayor in their respective cities, but neither has actually filed.

The mayor's job here pays $7,150 annually, highest salary of any mayor in Columbiana County.

Arabs Are Cool To Ike's Plan

Europe Pleased At Mid-East Proposal

By The Associated Press

President Eisenhower's plan for blocking communism in the Middle East was viewed with misgivings today in most of the Arab world.

Reaction elsewhere ranged from enthusiasm in some Western European countries to cries of "rude interference" from Moscow. Non-Arab allies of the United States in the Middle East welcomed the program.

The Eisenhower doctrine — aimed at preventing Communist encroachment on the Middle East — couples the promise of large-scale economic help to the area with a threat to use U. S. armed forces against overt Communist aggression there. The President outlined it to Congress Saturday.

In Cairo, the reception was chilly but mild. Some Egyptians who had hoped the United States was ready to unveil a new policy of support for President Nasser were disappointed.

There was also the feeling that the doctrine would make it more difficult for Egypt to play off the Communists against the West, as in the past. There was fear that continued flirting with the Soviet bloc would harm purchases and other help would lay Nasser open to the charge of being a vehicle of "indirect Communist aggression."

Many Arabs throughout the area expressed disappointment that the President passed quickly over the Israel-Arab dispute, leaving the United Nations to continue its so far unsuccessful efforts to solve this problem.

Dulles Declares Ike's Plan Is Way To Peace

Says Russia Must Be Told Attack In Asia Means War

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles told Congress today that the way to peace in the Middle East is to make it clear "that armed Communist attack would have to be met, if need be, by the armed forces of the United States."

"You may feel, I do feel," Dulles told a crowded public meeting of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, "that there is in fact no doubt as to what the Congress would do if international communism set out on a piecemeal conquest of the world by war."

"But until the Congress has actually spoken, there is doubt in the Middle East and there may be doubt in the Soviet Union."

Delay would make such doubts grow, the secretary said, and he told the legislators, some of whom have expressed concern with the sweeping nature of the fight-if-necessary authority sought by the President:

"The purpose of the proposed resolution is not war. It is peace. The purpose, as in other cases where the President and the Congress have acted together to oppose international communism, is to stop world war III before it starts."

Jews Tell Of Terror In Egypt

Shipload of Refugees Lands in Naples, Italy

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—A shipload of Jewish men, women and children has arrived here from Egypt, telling a story of terrorism, imprisonment, expulsion and forfeiture of property.

An officer on the Egyptian passenger ship Misr, which brought the 957 Jews from Alexandria, denied the account. He said the Jews were well treated and left of their own accord.

Many of the arrivals said they expected the rest of Egypt's 40,000 Jews to leave soon. The Egyptian said those he brought out were mostly stateless and that two thirds of his country's Jews, who have Egyptian citizenship, will choose to stay in the country.

Few Have Passports

Fewer than 100 of the arrivals have passports — as citizens of France, England, Italy or other countries. The families of many of the stateless have been in Egypt for three, four or five generations. They said it was hard to get Egyptian citizenship.

A once-wealthy Cairo Jewish businessman gave this reason for the exodus:

"It has become a panic. It is a planned campaign of terror."

Another gave this account:

"We were expelled. The police came at night to our homes and threatened us. We were taken into custody, and our shops and factories were closed."

"We or our friends were hustled away in the night to concentra-

Members Of Cabinet To Get Pay Hikes

Legislators Must Find More Money For School Subsidy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Where's the money coming from?

That was the question circulating through the fast-filling Ohio legislative halls today as the 173-member 102nd General Assembly prepared to start its 1957 regular session at 1:30 p.m.

Money—or the lack of it—looks like the big problem for the Buckeye State's lawmakers for the next six or seven months.

Before Ohio's senate and house begin to look at the state's flattened purse, they are expected to do a fast job of authorizing pay increases for the 14 members of Gov.-Elect C. William O'Neill's cabinet—perhaps as high as $30,000 for the highway director and $25,000 a year for the director of mental hygiene and correction. Both directors now are paid $12,000 a year.

The increases are designed to give O'Neill a chance of "drafting" qualified persons as departmental directors. The bill is due to be introduced in the Senate today and approved by both houses before O'Neill is inaugurated a week hence.

The Republican governor-elect probably will withhold announcement of any cabinet appointments until all appointees are assured pay increases. Some cabinet members now draw $12,000 a year and others $10,000. Most department heads are expected to be advanced to about $18,000 a year.

But the legislators aren't worried about pay increases for top officials. They are looking, for instance, at the 125-million-dollar tab for the state school subsidy increase in the 1957-58 bookkeeping period.

That figure assumes the accuracy of semi-official predictions recently that 1957-58 school subsidy spending will be 93 million dollars above that in the current two-year period which ends June 30. It also assumes that the Legislature must appropriate another 31½ millions to cover the school subsidy for the present two-year period.

If the school money forecast is accurate, the school subsidy appropriation in this coming session will be almost exactly 400 million dollars.

How tough will it be for the lawmakers to raise the 125-million school subsidy increase? If they were to raise it with an across-

Grand Jury To Hear Five Cases Tuesday

LISBON — Seven witnesses have been called to testify Tuesday afternoon before the January Grand Jury which will convene Tuesday at 9:30 a.m.

Nineteen transcripts have been filed, according to G. William Brokaw, prosecutor. One hearing involves a murder charge against Raymond Porter, 21, of East Liverpool, accused of shooting Special Officer Joseph B. Mumford Nov. 17, 1956 in a McDonald St. home in East Liverpool.

Fifteen members of a panel of 50 jurors called will be selected for grand jury duty. After convening, they will be charged by Judge Joel H. Sharp and then will visit the county jail. They are not expected to start hearing cases until sometime Tuesday afternoon, Brokaw said.

Brokaw said five cases will be heard Tuesday. Six witnesses will be called Wednesday when the jury heard the Columbiana grand larceny case in which three Youngstown men allegedly stole clothing from the Holloway and Son and Fitzpatrick Bros. stores.

13 Vessels Finally Start To Leave Suez

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP)—Thirteen ships of seven nations finally were on their way out of the Suez Canal today, more than two months after the British-French invasion and Egyptian counter-measures bottled them up in the waterway.

Wrecks still obstructing the canal made their passage north to Port Said a tricky navigating problem. Col. Mahmoud Yunes, managing director of the Egyptian Suez Canal Authority, estimated it might take until Thursday to get all 13 out of the canal.

The Egyptians themselves undertook the job of moving the trapped freighters and tankers, spurning offers from the U. N. salvage fleet clearing the ships and bridges which Egypt sank in the canal after British and French warplanes began to bombard Oct. 31.

Because the southern portion of the canal is still blocked, the ships must go out through the north. U. N. salvage experts estimate they will have a channel open to 10,000-ton ships the entire length of the 103-mile waterway by early March.

The trip north for the ships involved being tugged around until they were headed north, the first time vessels have ever changed direction in the canal.

Boy, 14, Admits Killing Girl, 8

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Mutilated by 115 stab wounds, the body of frail, blonde Rose Ann White, 8, was found by a railroad track here Sunday. A 14-year-old boy admitted the crime.

Roger Brown's "principal concern" was that he might lose the lethal knife, reported Dep. Dist. Atty. J. Clinton Peterson. Young Brown led authorities at 3:30 a.m. to the place where Rose Ann's body was buried loosely under a pile of thistles and grass.

Peterson said Roger, the stepson of Sgt. Merrill Brown of the 436th Antiaircraft Battalion at nearby Travis Air Force Base, confessed the killing calmly and told how he later went home to work on a stamp collection and watch television.

Sunday night in the Solano County Jail at Vallejo, Roger went a little talking to reporters and said he "wished" the girl was alive.

Dr. Townsend To Start New Political Party
LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—With his 91st birthday coming up Jan. 13, Dr. Francis E. Townsend, the old age pension plan leader, says he's going to launch a new political party in California.

Townsend says it will be known as the Women's Anti-Poverty Party.

"It will be a party spearheaded by women, but of course we'll let the men in," he says, adding: "The Republican and Democratic parties are not concerned with the general welfare of the people."

CONSTIPATED?
new laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon. A "thrifty" colon is one that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

TO REGAIN NORMAL REGULARITY two things are necessary. First, the dry, shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it and so, excite its muscles to action; to a normal urge to purge.

ONLY A BULK LAXATIVE can 1) re-moisten this dry, shrunken waste and 2) supply vital bulk to re-create a normal urge to purge. And, of all bulk laxatives, COLONOID, the

19 In Ohio Die In Accidents
Snow Leaves Many Highways Slippery

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Nineteen persons died accidental deaths in Ohio during a week-end of wintry weather that left highways either slippery or slushy.

The state highway patrol said the weather hit roads in central Ohio hardest. However, no highways in the state have been closed, the patrol said.

Generally, city streets during Sunday's snow were more dangerous than highways, the patrol added. Four of the six fatal accidents Sunday were in cities.

As much as three inches of snow covered most of central and west central Ohio Sunday. Cincinnati reported an inch of snow but there was no accumulation in the eastern and northeastern parts of the state, the U.S. Weather Bureau reported.

With the exception of some buses running late, public transportation was unaffected.

The highway patrol said the bad weather probably slowed down motorists. An Associated Press survey of Ohio fatalities, from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday, showed 15 dead of traffic accidents.

Three died in fires and one man was crushed to death when a truck slipped out of gear and rolled over him in Cleveland.

Weathermen predicted off-and-on snow flurries for most of Ohio through Tuesday.

The fatalities:
Friday night:
Johnny Vangus, 16, West Alexandria, when his auto crashed into a bridge and then careened through ice into a frozen creek seven miles northeast of Eaton on Ohio 503.

Jack Shewmon, 87, Arcanum, when his auto crashed into a tree in Arcanum, Preble County.

Robert Sellers, 31, Rt. 2, McCornellsville, when his car was involved in a collision with a large gasoline truck on Ohio 7 three miles north of Marietta.

Harold E. Roberts, 16, Brilliant, when his car left a curve on Ohio 7 and hit a tree.

Dale Brugman, 45, Parkman; his wife, Tressie, 59, and Mrs. Ada Gingerich, 38, West Farmington, drowned after the station wagon in which they were riding skidded, hit a bridge, and dropped into Grand River near Warren.

James A. Feller, 29, Lima State Hospital guard, when his car was involved in a collision with a truck on U.S. 25 one mile south of Lima.

James Porter, 43, Cleveland, died Saturday of injuries received Friday when the car in which he was riding went out of control and smashed into a pole in Cleveland.

Saturday:
John Clay, 60, Cleveland, burned to death in a Cleveland apartment fire.

Smith E. Sweets, 79, Mesopotamia, died in a fire in a North Lima nursing home.

Arthur R. Stephens, 21, Lorain, and Miss Shirley Cromwell, 18, Lorain, when their car was involved in a collision with a tractor-trailer two miles west of the Norwalk-Sandusky interchange of the Ohio Turnpike.

Sunday:
James Hellegas, 45, Cleveland, when a heavy truck tractor slipped into neutral, rolled and crushed him in a Cleveland truck terminal.

Verdis Smith, 4, Cleveland, burned fatally when a flannel robe he was wearing caught fire from the kitchen stove.

Eugene Thomas, 4, when a car hit him as he crossed a street in front of his Cincinnati home.

Lawrence P. Griffith, 16, died Sunday of injuries suffered in a two-car accident in Cullerburg Saturday.

Mrs. Blance Cain, 59, Norwood, in a two-car collision on Ohio 177 about 12 miles southwest of Eaton.

Everett Moffitt, 46, Robins, Tenn., when the car in which he was riding hit a guard rail on U.S. 42 about two miles northeast of South Charleston.

Asks Probe Of Canadian Paper Mills' Profits

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—An investigation of the profits of Canadian paper mills was asked of Canadian Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent Saturday by Robert M. Beer, publisher of the Ashland, Ohio, Times-Gazette.

Beer wrote to the prime minister to protest what he termed "unjustified" annual increases in newsprint prices.

Beer said he has also asked the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. to support him in his demand for an investigation.

In his letter to St. Laurent, Beer said the annual increase constitutes "an unprincipled monopoly that the Canadian government should not tolerate."

He said "It is not good international relations to let this uncontrolled arrogance continue."

Record Steel Production Seen

120 Million Tons Is Expected Output

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steelmen are predicting a record production year for 1957, with an output of 120 million tons expected, "Steel" Magazine said today.

An increase in steelmaking capacity and a three-year labor contract, which means that the industry will not be plagued with labor troubles this year, are major factors indicating that 1957 could be the greatest production year for steel, the magazine said.

"Steelmen are forecasting that 1957 will be a record output year, overtaking the present high of 117,036,085 tons made in 1955," the metalworking weekly said. "A 120-million-ton yield would be a 4.3 per cent step-up over 1956's 115 million tons."

The new official annual capacity figure for the industry for 1957 is 133,459,150 net tons, compared with 1956's 128,363,090 tons. Last year's production represented 89.6 per cent of the official capacity. In order to reach the production level predicted for this year, the mills would have to operate at 90 per cent of capacity.

"Steel" said the capacity figure would continue to grow this year—probably more than it did in 1956.

"The steel industry has around 15 million tons of new steelmaking capacity under construction and around six million tons of it should be completed this year, compared with over five million tons last year," the publication said.

The magazine said the new contract signed following a midsummer strike by steelworkers last year would keep the industry's production efforts from being plagued by labor troubles this year, but the pact would mean increased labor costs. The contract calls for wage increases next July 1 and on July 1, 1958, and also provides for cost-of-living raises.

"These labor costs increases, along with price jumps on most raw materials, will bring further price advances on steel," the magazine said.

The publication's price composite on finished steel for the week ended Jan. 2 remained at $137.99 a net ton, while the composite on steelmaking scrap dropped $1.33 to $63.17 a gross ton.

Steel mills operated at 100 per cent of the 1956 capacity last week, turning out 2,461,893 tons of steel for ingots and castings.

Three Of Four Jail Escapees Nabbed

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Police and sheriff's deputies today hunted a Hamilton youth, only one still free of four juveniles who broke out of the Butler County jail Saturday night.

Two were returned to custody shortly after the escape. The third was captured by Middletown police Sunday night.

The four—two Hamilton youths, age 16, charged with a safe robbery, and two Middletown boys, age 14, held in a car theft—sawed loose the bars of a window and reached the roof of an adjoining building.

Deputy Sheriff Richard Schultheiss said Hamilton police found one youth at his home. He said one Middletown boy was handed over to police by his father.

Police said the Hamilton boy told them he bought a saw blade from another prisoner.

Has Idea For Punishing Jailed Drunken Drivers

DENVER (AP)—A Colorado state senator came up today with a new idea for punishment of persons serving jail sentences for driving while intoxicated. "I'd like to see them be required to pick up the whisky bottles and beer cans along our highways," said Sen. A. Woody Hewett, a Boulder Republican. Hewett said he would have a bill drafted if there are no legal obstacles to the plan.

Bomb Hoax Ends Movie Before Its Climax

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—A false bomb scare at the Wichita Theater prevented more than a thousand spectators from finding out how "Giant," a film about Texas, ends.

When a man called the Wichita Falls Record-News and said a bomb had been planted in the theater and would go off in 10 minutes, the newspaper called police.

The film was stopped and the theater quickly emptied. A thorough search failed to turn up a bomb.

Rockets have been known for about 700 years.

FBI Story

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation has had notable success in planting its agents in the Communist network for investigative purposes.

The question naturally arises, "Why don't the commies try to plant a few of their key men inside the FBI?"

The answer is, they have tried again and again—and failed.

"The communists are known to have made numerous efforts to penetrate the FBI, but there is no evidence that they ever succeeded," says Don Whitehead in "The FBI Story," a biography of the mysterious government agency that has become a smash best-seller in the nation's bookshelves.

More than a year ago Whitehead, top war correspondent, twice winner of the Pulitzer prize, and now chief of the Washington bureau of the New York Herald Tribune, set out to find the answer to two problems that puzzled him:

"How had J. Edgar Hoover managed to survive for 30 years as director of the FBI in a city as full of political intrigue as the nation's capital?"

Was there any truth to insinuations that the FBI represented a shadowy menace to civil rights? Like the trained reporter he is, Whitehead went to the fountainhead source, and asked and received permission to inspect FBI files, except those dealing with national security.

The result is his book, subtitled, "A Report To The People," which strips away some of the mystery and perhaps a bit of the glamor that has surrounded the FBI, but at the same time documents fully its magnificent record of public service.

It is a report long overdue—one that should do much to clear away an mistaken mistrust of the FBI (a mistrust for which in at least some small measure the FBI's own secrecy is to blame).

"Hoover is the FBI," says Whitehead. He makes it clear the reason Hoover has held his top role so long (he has served under five presidents) is precisely because he took the FBI out of partisan politics and fought to keep it out.

The FBI's success in catching all kinds of criminals ranging from landgrabbers to bankrobbers, from kidnapers to communist spies is backgrounded with enough sensational cases to make a dozen movies.

Whitehead also cites many little known facts about the FBI, such as:

Its agents are taught to fire a gun with either hand, and one of their slogans is "never shoot while running."

That FBI men even before the second world war trained U. S. Marines in hand-to-hand fighting. That only one FBI agent (and that was back in the lush days of prohibition) ever had to be fired for taking a bribe.

That, although most of its agents could earn twice as much money outside the service, the FBI in 1955 had a monthly turnover of less than one-half of one per cent, compared with 3.3 per cent for private industry.

Will the FBI ever turn into a national police? In a foreword, Hoover himself disclaims any such goal for the FBI, and adds:

"There is never any doubt within the FBI that the home-town law enforcement agency must ever be in the forefront of crime control."

Can the FBI turn into "another Gestapo"?

Whitehead cites the record to show the steadily increasing role played by the FBI in protecting civil liberties, concludes it could degenerate into a Gestapo-like organization only if it became a political tool under a dictator government in which the normal checks and balances were destroyed.

TAX RECEIPTS DROP

The sale of prepaid tax receipts for Columbiana County for the week ending Dec. 22, 1956 was $64,546.63, Roger W. Tracy, treasurer of state, reported today. The 1955 figure for the comparable period was $65,401.39.

Oldest newspaper on record is the Strasburg Relation, published in Germany during 1609.

Four Prisoners Escape From Jail

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Four prisoners in the Lawrence County jail here were found missing Sunday when jailers brought lunch to their cell.

Sheriff Carl E. Rose said the men had escaped sometime during the previous night through a hole they had hammered out in the concrete floor. They dropped through the hole into a "crawl space," Rose said, pried open a door leading to the jail's first floor, and then escaped through a rear exit.

Rose identified the escapees as David Thomason, 23, of Greenup, Ky., charged with armed robbery; George P. Collins, 25, of Toledo, charged with breaking and entering; Hubert Duncan, 33, of near-by Coal Grove, charged with grand larceny and James W. Schooler, 25, of Ironton, charged with breaking and entering.

Reports Indicate Business Earnings In '56 Set Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Larger sales volume in the final months of 1956 appear today to have pulled American business as a whole a little higher up on the profit trail. First reports indicate that total earnings will once again set a new high mark, although the gain over the previous year will be small.

The margin of increase over 1955 dwindled steadily in each quarter of the year until in the summer months it approached the vanishing point. But fourth-quarter earnings after taxes appear to have been enough better to bring the year as a whole into the plus column once again.

Results are quite ragged, however, as between industries.

The largest oil company estimates its 1956 net profit will top 1955 by 13 per cent. The industry as a whole has thrived on increased demand for its products, swelled in the final weeks of the year by the Suez Canal crisis.

The Association of American Railroads, on the other hand, believes rail profits will trail by 6 per cent.

Reports of the nation's big banks, now pouring in, show gains over the previous year ranging from 10 to 20 per cent. They made money on the increased volume of loans on which they got higher interest.

Reports of 59 utilities for the 12 months ending Nov. 30 show all but five bettering their 1955 earnings. Combined, earnings of the 59 increased 10 per cent.

Thirty industrials whose fiscal years ended before December had a harder time of it. Seven saw profits decline from a year ago, and two operated at a net loss. Combined, the 30 report 1956 profits of $173,539,042, an increase of 3.1 per cent over the $168,278,327 the same 30 made in 1955.

Credited with putting the brake on rising earnings for many companies is the increase in operating costs which in many cases has exceeded the hike in the prices of their products. Material and labor costs have been on the upgrade.

The High School Job

No one knows better than the Board of Education that building costs are high. The new senior high school to be built in the E. Sixth-E. Ninth St. area is going to take every cent of the bond issue which the voters approved more than a year ago.

Board members will meet tonight to possibly award contracts for the new school, following a session last week with bidders and the architect to see if any revision of plans or cheapening of materials could save money on the overall cost.

Use of less-expensive materials, in some instances, might prove more expensive in the long run.

The educational building has to be built for the city's rapidly-growing student population and it is only good judgment to construct the best.

Since preliminary expenses have "eaten up" $171,149 of the $2,585,000 bond money the proper course of action might be to proceed wholly on the program of constructing the new high school and forget, for the time being, contemplated improvements at the existing high school which is to become a junior high. Any further delay might prove more expensive.

Incentive Plan

The birth rate on New Year's day is the only reminder some of us are given about the greatest incentive plan in the United States.

Every time a baby is born, the economic system rings a bell. Analysis refutes the needs for goods and services.

Parents think of needs ranging from a larger house to more insurance protection. In many cases, a baby marks crystallization of a new family unit, with all the innumerable needs whose satisfaction fills attics and junk yards, as well as hearts and coffers.

Fathers bear down a little harder to stir up the scratch that will be needed to cover the added costs. In these days of multiple incomes, it is not unusual for mothers to join fathers in pursuit of pelf for a growing family, with time out now and then for the unavoidable delays that go with child-bearing. Babies never "had it so good" so they are having it in the United States in the mid-20th century.

There is no intrinsic merit in a high birth rate. It does not produce prosperity in China, or India where one more mouth to feed is a net drain on an inadequate food supply. But in the United States, where food is plentiful, population growth is assurance of an ever-increasing market for an ever-increasing supply of goods and services.

Governor Brown

There may be some Republicans including Gov.-elect O'Neill, and there undoubtedly are many Democrats who are not sharing the fun of Lieut. Gov. John W. Brown's short-lived whirl as No. 1 man in Columbus. But it has crossed our mind that if we were in the same spot we'd enjoy doing what Ohio's governor-for-a-forenight is doing. We'd go further than he is going.

We'd not only move into the executive mansion but slide down the banisters. We'd not only have a swearing-in ceremony but a regular inaugural, with loudspeakers blaring our theme song and street banners proclaiming our presence.

Whatever ceremonies seemed to need demonstrating, we'd be in favor of holding, and every move would be recorded by motion picture and sound cameras so the glorious adventure could be shown to our grandchildren.

But principally, we'd have a marathon inaugural ball—provided someone would put up the money. That should be no problem, because any one of a number of people should be willing to underwrite a historic whirl—an inaugural ball that would last as long as the administration it inaugurated. And ever afterward, we'd insist on being called Gov. Brown, after the fashion of politicians who cherish the title that marks their greatest triumph.

A French stylist says American women are shy—and if they weren't, their husbands would be.

There's one thing nice about grapefruit—restaurants don't try to get three halves out of one, like they do with cantaloupe.

If the kids complain about having nothing to do during the holidays, it's a good time to take them to that dental appointment.

A famous investigator claims that the average woman is a poor investigator. Wait till he gets married.

A doctor says love can cause high blood pressure or a stomach ache. No wonder some young couples look sick.

Pigs can learn things, according to a professor. To make hogs of themselves or collect pennies.

When you let your friends solve your problems you're likely to run into a series of wrong answers.

Road To Disaster

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Trouble Clouds Appear On Home, Foreign Fronts

An atmosphere of impending crisis surrounds the new Congress. There is an air of anxiety and it stems from internal as well as external factors.

The uncertainty about the Middle East and the turbulence in the satellite states of eastern Europe which could cause a crumbling of the Kremlin are in the headlines every day but there is something else which isn't—the growing fear that America's economy faces some serious storms in the months ahead.

This Congress remains divided on party lines almost exactly as it did after the 1954 election. That's because contests for Congress are by districts and states and local issues play a vital part. Hence, the popularity of a president cannot influence the result in Congress, as is sometimes assumed.

The main reason why the Republican party didn't get an overwhelming vote in both houses of Congress was economic. There was a business recession in 1954 and a farm recession in 1956.

Now the biggest threat that faces the party in power is the prospect of another setback to business. This can come as a result of the wage and price inflation now being experienced in many industries.

AMERICA DOESN'T have a free economy, as is so often insisted.

If cartels and monopolies were to fix prices, the public would understand and there would be a demand for vigorous enforcement of the antitrust laws. Yet, when an artificial factor that fixes prices and interferes with the free flow of goods to market is imposed by another type of monopoly—the labor-union cartels—then there is little public understanding or complaint.

Today's economic danger lies in the fact that a habit has developed in labor-union negotiations to demand more and more each year, irrespective of whether the prices of goods manufactured are forced upward to a point where the buyers cannot absorb them.

For the first time in many years corporation profits of many major companies have shown a decline as compared with previous years. The 1956 earnings were below those of 1955, and there are indications that in 1957 they will go even lower.

The cry of business men on every side is "rising costs." Nobody seems to be able to forecast when the inflationary trend will stop for, when wages go up, prices are raised, too.

The doctrine of labor leaders that wage increases can be absorbed indefinitely out of high profits has in it a basic fallacy. For, while profits do decline, wages never drop except when the bottom has fallen out of everything and a depression is on.

THERE IS, therefore, no flexibility in America's economic system as at present constituted. The Federal Reserve Board may make money "tight" and limit credit but it can do nothing to stop the wage spiral which is at the bottom of the money inflation.

Companies seek to expand and expand in order to produce a bigger and bigger volume of goods, hoping thereby to get greater productivity and higher profits.

But there is on the horizon already some signs that the cycle is coming to an end—the period of rising costs can be halted apparently only by a curtailment of buying due to the price rises.

This is called "resistance" to prices and the big question of the hour is how near is the nation to that point in the current operations of business.

There are some symptoms of trouble. Every now and then mergers are compelled as a means of rescuing a business from the strait jacket of higher and higher costs and lower and lower profits. Small businesses are encountering the same kind of setbacks as the larger ones.

The root of the trouble is the failure to understand that the profit system is also a loss system and that the persons who do not invest capital and have no primary responsibility for earning a profit cannot be permitted to force a narrower and narrower spread between profits and costs.

The end result of such a pressure is bound to be unemployment for many workers.

THE PROPHECIES and forecasts for 1957 as issued at the beginning of the new year are, as usual, optimistic. But the situation underneath is not stable.

One reason, of course, is that every business must put aside 52 cents out of every dollar of profit for federal taxes and there is no sign of tax reduction. Congress is still in a mood to spend more and more.

The problem of the business man is how to multiply his 48-cent segment of the profit dollar—and that requires a bigger and bigger volume of sales.

When this isn't forthcoming, then there must be a reduction in costs. Otherwise, red figures appear, and eventually comes liquidation of the business. And in too many enterprises the labor cost is fixed.

It not only can't be reduced but labor leaders are insisting that it must go up every year so they can keep their jobs in the unions against rival candidates.

This is the road to economic disaster in America, yet few voices have been raised—and few will be in Congress—to head off the trouble that seems inevitable if the present cycle of wage rises is continued without a corresponding increase in business profits to take care of these costs and to provide reserves for new equipment and plant expansion.

The Indispensables

By TRUMAN TWILL

Before the new year is another day older, why not be grateful in advance for the help of the unsung people who make life worth living?

Such as—The filling station gets who puts back the cap and gets the dirt off the windshield, the fellow who drives the snow plow that clears the road you drive on, the hero who goes out into a night-time storm to repair the power line.

The janitor who keeps things tidied up where you make your living, the policeman who keeps both eyes open while you have both eyes shut, the flat-voiced ice-berg who "talks in" airplanes when the visibility edges toward zero.

The remote unknowns who could be identified in a pinch by those little slips of papers in packages—"Inspected By No. 37"

All the people who make certain the measurements on rulers, yardsticks and tape measures are correct, the unseen benefactors who ring church bells on Sunday morning, artisans who grind lenses so the half-blind can see.

Truck drivers who go beyond the line of duty to watch out for the safety of amateur drivers who share the highways with them, men and women who teach Sunday school classes and watch out for the welfare of children in many other ways.

All the "assistant" thises and thates who do the work for which the people in the front offices get the credit, whoever keeps pop bottles clean, accountants who make sure there are not too many oysters in the stew.

Hikers who trudge up hill and down dale year in and year out inspecting railroad lines, pipelines and power lines, the benefactor who puts anti-knock goop in gasoline, the dextrous fellow who takes out cherry stones to make cherry pie safe for posterity.

Ad men who dream up claims for perfumery, textile experts who make shoestrings stronger than they used to be, technicians who put the little ball into ball-point pens, emptiers of ashtrays and hewers of firewood.

Writers of amusing inscriptions on walls, designers of costume jewelry that any woman can afford for the enhancement of her best qualities, people who know how to make attractive window displays.

Furnace-tenders, pot-watchers, broom-wielders, glass-polishers, shrubbery-trimmers, fruit-tree-sprayers, paving-patchers, valve-tenders, gauge-watchers, clock-winders, wet-testers and all the unknown guardian angels whose devotion to their indispensable small duties keeps things on an even keel.

It's like they say about every sound organization—"The head man can go away for a month and not be missed, but if the janitor gets sick they have to close down."

Orphan of the Storm

Soviet Gains Edge In Middle East

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

In politics, as in most things, a vacuum is abhorred. When the British and the French were pushed out of the Middle East, principally by the United States, a power vacuum was established which could be filled only by the United States or Soviet Russia.

Egypt could not fill it because there is demonstrably not enough vitality in Egypt even for self-defense.

Israel could not fill it because to other country would permit Israel to expand.

India could not fill it because Nehru is only a merchant of compromises without sufficient force to settle the problems of Kashmir which is the native province of his family.

THE UNITED STATES and Soviet Russia permitted Egypt to seize the Suez Canal which was an act of international theft.

The United States rejected efforts of Great Britain and France to get their canal back. Soviet Russia armed Egypt and Syria for war.

The United States pioneered its policy on the United Nations which has already failed to maintain the peace in Egypt as it has failed to do anything worth noting about an act of cruel imperialism in Hungary.

So, it was inevitable that sooner or later, American policy would have to change from abject pacifism to overt intervention in the Middle East. Therefore the President has asked for stand-by authority to intervene with military force in the Middle East.

Are we too late? Syria is already becoming a Russian province. The Syrian army is being reorganized under Russian command.

The failure to use Soviet equipment by Nasser when he had his chance has hurt Russian pride, particularly as Israel marched through the Egyptian defenses like a dose of salts and would have taken the Suez Canal had not Great Britain and France intervened.

SO THE RUSSIANS are taking no more chances. Syria has become a Russian base, one that imperils Iran, Iraq, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Israel and all the countries of the Middle East and possibly the whole of North Africa and even Turkey are endangered.

This writer and many others foresaw this peril when the seizure of the Suez Canal occurred, ostensibly as an act of blackmail designed to force the United States and Great Britain to finance Nasser's grandiose Aswan Dam project.

Despite Nasser's very bad conduct, there were those in this country who insisted that Great Britain and France were expendable as allies; that careful handling would gain the Arab countries as America's friends and that if the British and the French did not like what was done to them, they could lump it because they had nowhere else to go.

IT HAS NOT worked out as planned. And now the United States has to decide whether it will defend whatever vital interests it may have in the Middle East or abdicate to Soviet Russia, acknowledging not only that our pacific policies were wrong but that they have considerably strengthened Soviet power and have strengthened it at a time when the Soviet universal state was weakening from within.

Naturally the President must have stand-by war powers, or we shall be bombed to hell while Sen. Herbert Humphrey debates with Sen. Paul Douglas what shall be done about the hereafter in Cairo.

This is a tough moment in our history and there is no advantage in sugar-coating it in any way. There are some who say that Nasser is right because he was invaded by Israel and he is such a noble creature that he did not even resist an invader who in a matter of days moved into his territory and occupied it.

ALL OF THIS is beside the point which is: What has the United States to defend in the Middle East?

If it is only oil, the whole of it would not be worth a single American life. It is no longer the British or French Empires. It is not Israel which will live or die as Soviet Russia now decides in the Middle East.

What is it then that excites us so much? It is the defense of the United States of America in an era when war is made not by fighting battles but by balancing power.

If Soviet Russia gains the Middle East, its powers will be increased many times because of its control of additional natural resources and all the roads that lead to India.

Spectre Of The Bear

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The spectre of the Russian bear in the Middle East plagues American oil companies today just as it does Washington officials and the Congress.

It adds to the uncertainties of the billion and a half dollars they have invested there. It clouds the prospects for further investment.

The new tension is piled on top of a loss of some 35 to 40 per cent in oil production since the Suez Canal was blocked, the pipeline across Syria blown up, and a ban on oil shipments to England and France imposed by Saudi Arabia.

What to do about further investments in the troubled area occupies the deliberations of the boards of directors of American oil companies. Some projects may be put off until the Suez can be cleared and some sort of a settlement or compromise worked out in the bitter feud between the Arabs and the Israelis.

But some of the companies say they will go on with this year's projects at least while reappraising the situation. They count on Washington to work out of the present impasse in the Middle East, quiet the Israelis and Arabs and keep the Russians out.

The Arabian governments are being pinched as well as the American and other oil interests. Oil companies split the profits on a 50-50 basis with the various governments. The cut in output has meant a drop in revenues—and for most of the Middle East oil revenues are the chief ones.

Washington fears that some Middle East governments, pinched as oil revenues drop, may listen to financial promises of the Russians.

The cut in oil production and profits wouldn't be as large if there weren't a tanker shortage. Existing fleets can't carry as much oil to Europe because of the extra time required in going around Africa. The world's shipyards are crowded with orders for new tankers, but it will be three years before all that are now needed can be built.

Until the Suez can be cleared and an agreement made for its operation, oil companies will also have trouble in finding enough cargo space to bring into the Middle East the equipment and supplies needed to carry out expansion programs.

Urges Early Start On School

To The News: I think we had better get busy and build our new high school before more of the bond money is spent elsewhere.

I went to school six years and walked a mile and a half to get there each day but I think I can figure mathematics a little better than some who have gone to school 12 or more years. As a taxpayer, I suggest that we get started on the new school as soon as possible. We who are paying the taxes are vitally interested.

So They Say

Spending so much for the benefit of so few anglers seems out of balance. What are we doing for the striped bass, shad, smelt, surf fishes and ocean fishes generally? Clear signs of depletion are evident in these forms.—Prof. Paul R. Needham, University of California fisheries zoologist, condemning the practice of "planting trout."

Thoughts

Let Israel now say, that his mercy endureth forever.—Psalms 118:2.

God's mercy is a holy mercy, which knows how to pardon sin, not to protect it; it is a sanctuary for the penitent, not for the presumptuous.—Bishop Reynolds.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

A Prophetess Speaks

Mme. Gazinta Hall, famed prophetess, was interviewed by us this week on the months ahead. She said she was certain there would be few changes in the general situation in 1957, unless her tea leaves had been tampered with.

"I see a year," she said, "in which there will be some increase in flying saucers, new shaving creams, filter tip smokes and annoying TV commercials."

There will be so many new deodorant plugs on the airwaves that a visitor from Mars would get the impression Americans slept in their clothes, lived in clam bars and never took a shower.

"PROSPERITY IN AMERICA will continue to a point where general dissatisfaction will reach a new high and salary levels hit a stage where everybody can be unhappy instead of just the very rich."

I see further strides toward the Utopia where all Americans can have what they can't afford and experience an economic paradise in which life, liberty and the pursuit of a three-car garage can be within reach.

I foresee an opportunity for people to go around the world by rocket-plane in three hours and have three years to pay.

"EUROPEAN AND ASIATIC nations will find the U.S. can't lend them any more billions, and will turn to Mike Todd.

Dream houses will be smaller and lower and the prices bigger and higher.

The auto industry will develop a new "car of the future," making it possible for a buyer to get a price on the extras first and the car itself later.

There will be labor troubles, with many protests that the man getting only $100 a week is a victim of degrading slavery.

I look for demands that all factories provide more parking space for workers' beach wagons, and give free car-washing service.

"I see a good year for musicians, especially if they concentrate on jingles for cigarettes and beer. There will be a sensational development on TV... a comedian will be found who can be amusing with fewer than six gag writers."

It will be a big twelve months for roto brothers, super kitchens, juvenile delinquency problems, manufacturers of ventriloquists' dummies, authors of Civil War stories, cake mixes and Pentagon red tape.

I see a dark man approaching with a bundle, and it may be Nasser with a Soviet loan.

Divorces will reach a new high. I see a spread of the two-TV-set home and predict a TV room in which a feature will be theater seats and a popcorn machine."

Mme. Gazinta stirred the tea leaves again and concluded, "There will be hurricanes, both weevils and Elvis Presley. I see no chance of a comeback by Anthony Eden, Rocky Marciano or Adlai Stevenson."

John Hay ("Jock") Whitney is our new ambassador to Britain... He is one of the world's top horse-racing men and form students say he is the best diplomat on earth at the weights. Mickey Rooney has been chosen to play George Cohan in the movies... This we want to see... Mickey resembles the great song and dance genius as much as Maxie Rosebloom resembles Nehru.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

On the morning of Oct. 25, 1944, Franklin D. Roosevelt talked earnestly and long to several close political friends and this columnist. He talked of many things, of fighting ships and politics. And he predicted that there might be two new parties.

One, he forecast, would spring from the merging of the "liberal" elements of the Democratic and Republican parties, and the other would come of counter-action by conservatives from the old ranks.

President Roosevelt spoke wistfully of not being here to see it happen — and said he had hoped Wendell Willkie would take the leadership. He recalled that he had once written to Willkie about it, asking that he come in to the White House to talk it over.

Now both men are gone and there is scarcely a mention of them as history pushes its rude way through new political years.

But we might be witnessing the reemergence of which President Roosevelt predicted, hardly thinking that it might come during the administration of a man he knew only as a fighting general — one Dwight D. Eisenhower.

THE BEGINNING of things is frequently the total of minor incidents — and one of these is the unnoticed appointment of a chap by the name of Robert Gormley to head the "labor desk" of the Republican National Committee.

To those who watched GOP post-election tactics in the past, this appointment has real meaning. It reveals that come spring the Republicans will have Mr. Gormley and some others on the road keeping alive their 50-odd labor committees and organizing new ones — long in advance of any national election.

There is also signified here a vital political fact which comes from the knowledge that the "labor desk" is the project of U.S. Secretary of Labor James Mitchell — and, therefore, of the President himself.

Traditionally the GOP national high command shuts up desks and shop after each election. This time the labor section was not mothballed.

MR. MITCHELL believes that much of labor's vote was successfully wooed over the pitch of the national union chiefs—virtually all of whom were for Adlai Stevenson.

Mr. Mitchell is reported to believe that this success was due to the White House refusal to attack all labor sweeping, as has been the practice of many Republican strategists in the past — and some Republicans, such as Sen. Barry Goldwater, at present.

Mr. Mitchell took the view during this campaign that the labor vote was not the property of either the Democrats or the labor chiefs. A down-to-earth appeal could win them to the GOP, he felt, on the basis of the country's prosperity and the Eisenhower administration's accomplishments.

Mr. Mitchell, who saw the inside of more labor conventions in the pre-election months than a walking delegate out of the high-button shoes era, said this over and over again last October and early November. Now he and Gormley have analyzed the votes in labor districts and they believe that their stratagem helped like to win.

IF THIS POLICY doesn't sit well with honestly indignant conservatives inside high Republican circles, another of Mr. Mitchell's moves will please them even less. For, in addition to all else, this new tactic will reveal the standing the labor secretary has with the President.

Mr. Mitchell has arranged for the President to receive in the White House a labor delegation made up of some fiery New Dealers, among others. They have a project to sell Mr. Eisenhower—but may find that they don't have to sell him on it. He may already be in their corner.

This involves one of the major legislative projects for American labor in 1957.

There are many millions of workers in the U.S. who earn less than a dollar an hour — or less than $40 a week. These are mostly in the retail and white collar fields.

OF THESE WORKERS, 7 million are in the retail field. The AFL-CIO will launch a drive this week to move Congress into extending the dollar minimum wage law of the land to these 7 million. The retail industry has already warned that it cannot absorb the hundred million or more dollars this would mean in extra wages, and over again last October and

News of Meetings, Helpful Hints For Farmers

For 1957 Corn Producers

LISBON — Any producer who intends to plant corn in 1957 on a farm where there was no corn acreage during the years 1954, 1955 or 1956 must apply for a corn acreage allotment if he wants to participate in any phase of the Soil Bank Program in 1957, Everett A. Fishel, chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

Marketing quotas do not apply to corn, the chairman explained. However, under the present program, the production of corn in 1957 on a farm which has no corn acreage allocation would make the corn produced on such a farm ineligible for the maximum price support in 1957, as well as effect the farmer's participation in the Soil Bank Program.

Application forms for a corn acreage allotment are available at the Columbiana County Agricultural Stabilization Conservation office at Lisbon. The last day such applications may be filed is Jan. 31, Fishel said.

Farm Classes For Vets

J. L. McBride superintendent of Columbiana County schools, announced that the next period for enrollment of farm veterans in institutional on-farm training classes will be during the month of March.

Columbiana county has a class at Lisbon.

Every reasonable effort will be made to help eligible veterans get properly enrolled, he said. Veterans who have already made formal application should confer with Supt. McBride in regard to March enrollment. Veterans wishing to apply may get forms and instructions from Mr. McBride.

Every veteran interested in this program of training should remember that enrollment must be made before three years from the date of service discharge.

Veterans recently discharged from the armed forces may profitably delay enrollment until they are certain of a farm on which to train and are sure of a good training situation.

New classes may be organized when ten or more veterans, within a reasonable driving area, formally apply and cannot be accommodated in existing classes. Veterans from adjoining counties may unite to form a class in a convenient school where vocational agriculture facilities are or can be made available.

Additional information or enrollment forms may be secured by writing to L. B. Fidler, institutional on-farm training, 220 S. Parsons Ave., Columbus 15, Ohio.

Cow Sets Record

Carolade Betty, a five-year-old Holstein cow at the farm of Glenn Shreve of Damascus, has set a new milk production record, according to the Ohio Holstein-Friesian Association. Milked twice daily for 344 days, the cow produced a total of 14,249 pounds of milk and 506 pounds of butterfat.

To Address Jersey Breeders

Dr. Kenneth McFarland of the General Motors Corp., a national, lyk-noun farmer and educator, will be the headline speaker for the annual meeting of the Ohio Jersey Cattle Breeders Association, January 12, at the Oletangy school, south of Delaware.

Swine Growers Organize

Three Ohio swine groups, each with specific purposes, have joined forces to set up an organization which will attack mutual problems on a united front.

The Swine Improvement Association of Ohio, the Ohio Swine Breeders and Feeders association and the Ohio Commercial Swine Producers association voted in separate meetings recently to form an Ohio Swine Growers Council. Each group named 9 members to the council, which will serve as a link between the Ohio swine producers and the National Swine Growers Council.

Ohio council delegates will meet Feb. 2 in London to elect officers. W. H. Bruner, Ohio State University extension animal science and marketing specialist, says formation of the council will pull together all segments of the swine producing industry, giving swine men an organization which will speak for them on various policy matters.

Cattle Grub Control

Cattlemen and dairymen should make cattle grub control a New Year's resolution says George W. Ware, Ohio State University extension entomologist.

Grubs begin to appear on the backs of cattle around the last of January as "warbles" or large bumps beneath the skin. Ware points out. A weekly check by the owner beginning in mid-January will reveal the time of warble appearance.

Control measures should begin within two weeks after the first warbles are found on cattle, with the second and third applications made at monthly intervals, the entomologist explains. These three treatments are necessary, since the grubs appear in the backs of animals over a period of two to three months.

Rotenone is used for cattle grub control as a dust, spray, or wash. These can be made at home with the following ingredients:

Dust — A 1 1/2 to 2 percent dust is made by using 1 pound of rotenone dust (5 percent derris) with 2 pounds of pyrophyllite or talc as a diluent. This will treat 20 to 25 cattle.

Spray — Use 3 3/4 pounds of rotenone dust (5 percent derris) and 1 pound household detergent in 50 gallons of water. Power sprayers should be used with no less than 250 pounds pressure to obtain spray penetration.

Wash — Use 12 ounces ground rotenone dust (5 percent derris), 4 ounces of soap flakes in one gallon of water. This should be applied to the backs of cattle with a stiff brush to knock the scabs from the lumps.

File These Tips On Buying Paint Products For Home

When it comes to buying paint, the large, "economical" size is not always economical.

Almost any home handyman has half-filled paint cans around in his workshop.

And again, almost everyone has run out of supplies in the midst of a painting job. A little thoughtful shopping will avoid these situations.

Here are some important points to remember when you go shopping for paint the next time:

THINNERS: Check instructions on the paint can label for the correct thinner. Get the advice of your dealer if no special thinner is indicated.

In general, use turpentine to thin paints and varnishes, denatured alcohol for shellac, and lacquer thinner for lacquer.

Gum turpentine is considered by some authorities as a better thinner than wood-distilled turpentine or mineral spirits. To clean brushes after a job is completed, use the same material you used as a thinner.

SAFETY NOTE: Turpentine, lacquer thinner and alcohol are generally less expensive if bought in quantity, but here's where you can afford in the long run to lose money on your purchases. If you have a safe place away from any fire hazard (preferably away from the house, and locked up) and if you do a lot of painting, gallon sizes are the most economical to purchase.

Otherwise, buy small quantities of these flammable products, keep them sealed tightly and away from any source of flame or excessive heat. And keep them locked up, too, if there are children in the house.

PAINT: Check label before purchasing and use a particular paint only for the purpose for which it was manufactured. Good exterior paint contains white lead and zinc oxide, has a liquid vehicle of raw linseed oil.

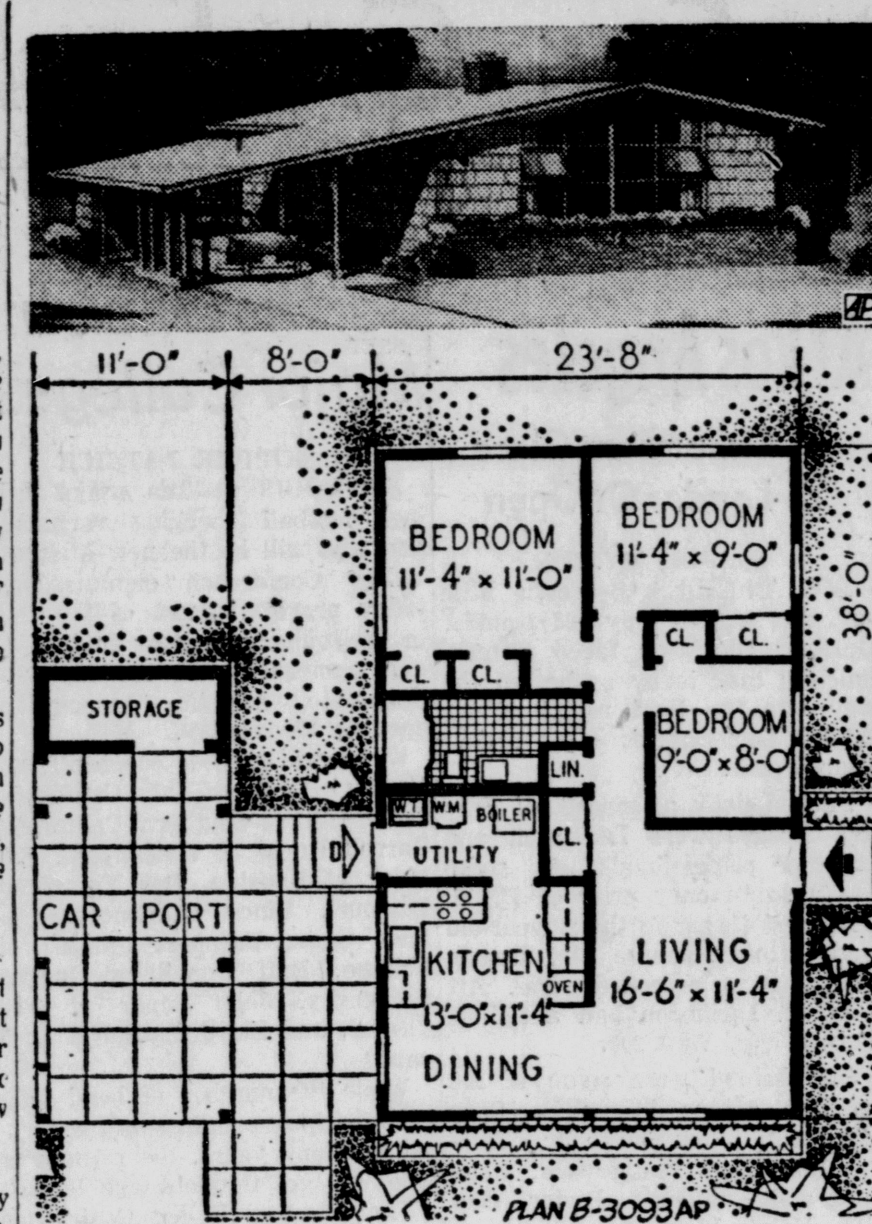

VARNISH: Buy the best quality and buy it in small amounts. Varnish will thicken after the can has been opened several times and won't dry as hard as it should. The best varnish generally contains synthetic resins. Again, check the label.

SHELLAC: Buy the smallest amount that will do the job. It doesn't keep well. Shellac is available in either white or orange. The orange is darker than you think. To lighten, add a little white shellac.

ENAMEL: Again, get the smallest amount for the task in hand. Color variety is wide and you are likely to want a different shade for an enameling job in the future.

Generally, a high percentage of varnish in the enamel indicates a better quality. Exception: semi gloss enamel has a smaller amount of varnish. Genuine automobile enamel is the most enduring of the enamels.

LACQUER: This tends to thicken

MAXIMUM ECONOMY keynotes this plan. Designed for a small lot, the house needs no basement and covers only 900 square feet—far less than the average. Yet here you have three bedrooms, bathroom, living room with dining and an open planned kitchen in addition to rather high windows in front. This is plan B-3093AP by Alvin Cassens Jr., 145 So. Franklin Ave., Valley Stream, N.Y.

once the can is opened. Unless you own a spray gun, make sure the lacquer is specifically made for brushing.

STAIN: You will probably need less stain than your estimate of requirements.

Get a pint or less for most furniture refinishing. Check the label to make sure it won't bleed or raise the grain of the wood. (Some stains roughen the surface by causing the wood fibers to swell.)

Other stains appear to be dry after they're on, but soften when finishing materials are applied. The result is that the color of the stain comes through the finish. This is known as "bleeding."

For the amateur, oil stains and wiping stains are the easiest to use. Spirit stains dry too quickly for anyone but an expert to handle.

TO PROTECT the supplies you have on hand, keep cans of paint and varnish tightly sealed.

Thin only the amount you are sure you will use at any one time

Hardwood Floors Gaining In Favor

The growing homemaker interest in attractive floors is focusing more attention than ever on durable, good-looking flooring materials that are easy to maintain, according to home planning specialists.

As usual, the experts say, oak and other handsome hardwoods are leading the popularity parade. Famed for their natural beauty and long life, they require only moderate care to look their best.

A big factor, too, in their universal use, is the variety of styles in which they are available. A particular type can be obtained to suit any surroundings.

The versatile strip type continues to be employed most extensively, since it is at home in any setting. There is a choice of several widths within this style.

In many homes block floors or plank floors are the choice. In some instances a combination of all three types is used.

Block floors, laid in designs which resemble exquisite parquet, are often selected where an atmosphere of formality is desired. Plank floors, reminiscent of the quaint plank floors of colonial times, are especially appropriate in ranch style homes and houses in the colonial tradition. They may be obtained with decorative wood pegs simulating the dowels by which old-time planks were fastened.

to cut and, when that is not practical, holding the work very securely.

DON'T... forget, in making measurements, to allow for the width of the saw cut, an especially important precaution when cutting something in half.

DON'T... release the trigger while the blade is still in the work; if the motor should stall, back up the saw a little to allow the blade to run free again.

DON'T... make any adjustments on the saw while the electric cord is in the outlet... even if the blade is not running.

DON'T... use ordinary saw blades for cutting metal or stone; there are special blades and abrasive wheels which fit the saw and make the cuts in metal and stone.

Walls Without Studs Can Be Insulated

Farm buildings and other structures built without inside wall studs can be insulated with mineral wool blankets.

A popular method is to attach the blankets to the wall with furring strips. Nails and washers, nail clips, or one of the common types of metal clips which stick to the walls with adhesive also can be used.

When the mineral wool is in place, insulation engineers advise covering it with a vapor barrier of waterproof paper. Lower sections of the walls can be protected by a wainscoting of wood or metal.

Decorating Problems For Dry Walls Can Be Overcome

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

Dry walls — the builder's term for interiors that are not finished with wet plaster — include everything from pine board paneling through hardwood veneers on plywood, fiber boards and gypsum wallboards, the latter of which are virtually prefabricated sheets of plaster.

All of these walls present some decorating problems. In cases of wood paneling, the proper handling of joints is important — to keep them just loose enough for natural movement, yet snug enough to seal crevices. Gypsum wallboard, on the other hand, when properly installed, can give you a completely flush surface concealing all joints.

Since gypsum wallboard is the most common form of dry wall construction, it is the cause of most of the complaints about decorating — especially when it has been covered with wallpaper in a hurry. After a year or two goes by, new homeowners often notice broad shadow lines and dollar spots in the coloring of their wallpaper.

This is a dead giveaway of shortcuts or plain ignorance in application of the wallpaper.

FACING THE FACTS, you must admit that standard wallpaper is a quality product that presented no similar problems on other types of walls. Furthermore, gypsum wallboard has proved its mettle over many years, not only by being economical, but also by accepting immediate decoration without a waiting period for drying, and by not showing settlement cracks.

In addition, gypsum wallboard is coated with a sheet of paper. It seems reasonable that it should have an affinity to wallpaper. The trouble seems to be that it has too much of an affinity. The wallpaper sticks to the paper covering of the

Fixit Forum

Q — I recently read that self-polishing wax should not be used on hardwood floors. Is that correct?

A — Yes. The National Oak Flooring Manufacturers' Association does not recommend self-polishing wax for hardwood floors because it contains water. Especially if used repeatedly on hardwood, water has a tendency to raise the grain of the wood, causing a slightly rough surface. It also may have a marring effect on the finish. Always use the rubbing type wax on floors of hardwood.

wall construction, and the wallpaper shows dollar spots and bands of darker color, you can bet that you won't get that paper off by steaming or any other method without damaging the wallboard.

The sensible way out is to size the walls thoroughly, or paint them. If paint does not give you the soft decorative effect you are accustomed to, you can safely hang wallpaper over the paint and it always will be easily removable because the paint will have sealed the walls.

Nehru Begins Slow Re-Election Drive

INDORE, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party today was off on its campaign for re-election at about the speed of its ballot symbol — yoked bullocks.

The party, India's largest, ended a five-day convention which seemed to stir little enthusiasm. The gathering was to have sparked the campaign for the parliamentary elections next month. Instead it seems to have been a fizzle, one of the duller conventions on record. Crowds at the convention totaled 15,000, in an enclosure meant for 100,000.

Speeches by Nehru and others were largely repetitions of past arguments. The platform says, in effect, that the Congress is standing on its past record.

No one expects the Congress to lose the elections, but political observers feel a slow start could reduce the party's present big majority.

'Mystery Voice' Keeps Firemen, Police Busy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Authorities in suburban Millington Twp. today intensified their investigation of a "mystery voice" that has threatened to blow up homes and needed firemen by turning in 34 false alarms.

Police said a woman's voice has been making the telephone calls since Dec. 4. They said she has threatened residents with different kinds of violence, including threats to burn or bomb their homes.

Her calls Sunday sent firemen chasing four false alarms and sent ambulances to four different homes that had not called them. One resident received 22 threatening calls and another was told a bomb was planted to blow up a section of a street.

So far none of the threats have been carried out, but some residents armed themselves with shotguns and told investigators: "You had better get to her before we do."

hospital. Detectives at the scene backed up statements of her physician that there was no indication that she had been raped.

But detectives in Los Angeles said that she had informed officer that she had been raped.

When another reporter asked her yesterday if there was any "vindictiveness" in the kidnapping, her second attorney, Jerry Giesler, warned her:

"It would be best not to say anything on this matter, as it might be misinterpreted."

Her news conference was her first meeting with newsmen since her disappearance. She covered her face with a veil and dark glasses as her mother and actor Wilding escorted her from the Indio hospital yesterday to a waiting ambulance, which returned her to her big home in this Los Angeles suburb.

Karl, speaking to newsmen later at his Bel-Air home, said, "This is the first kidnap I ever heard of where ransom money was not mentioned when the kidnapers phoned."

He said he wanted to know "if this is a kidnapping" or not. Detectives said Saturday that they were considering the case a "bona fide kidnapping."

showed general disappointment in the doctrine. But a number of Arabs found some "good things" in it, such as an implication of stronger U. S. support for independence movements.

Newspapers in Israel also were disappointed that the speech did not offer a remedy to the Israel-Arab problem. But they welcomed the step as an entrance of the United States in the Middle East.

In Syria, where a pro-Soviet clique is in power, official quarters called the doctrine a "formal declaration of cold war."

A spokesman said the Middle East does not want to be involved in the struggle between East and West.

Political circles in Iraq, which is aligned with the West in the Baghdad Pact, thought the doctrine seemed to touch the disease in the Middle East without trying to find the cause.

Turkey, an NATO and Baghdad Pact member, gave the plan its strongest support in the Middle East. Premier Adnan Mendres said:

"One fact, that the Middle East will not be abandoned to its fate, is clearly understood. Peace and stability may prevail in the region."

Pakistan also viewed it with favor.

tion camps where we were not told of any charges against us. We were held in chains or in tiny, crowded cells. Then we were called before the police and were told: 'Sign this paper and you can go.'

"The paper said, 'We swear that we wish to leave Egypt voluntarily.'"

The Jews said the Egyptian authorities told them they could take 100 Egyptian pounds ($288) per person and one or two small pieces of luggage not valued at more than 50 pounds. They paid for their passage.

About 100 of the Jews named various countries to which they would like to go, but most of them asked:

"When is the next boat to Israel?"

Orville M. Ray, 56, of Waynesburg, was bound over to the grand jury after pleading not guilty to a manslaughter charge at a hearing before Mayor Dean B. Cramer Saturday. He had been released on a $1,000 bond.

Ray was involved in an accident Dec. 28 at the junction of county road 402 and Rt. 172 in New Alexander, in which a Mrs. Ada McAfee, 40, of East Rochester, was killed.

Ray had originally pleaded guilty to a charge of going through a stop sign, but later changed his plea to not guilty. The State Highway Patrol then filed the manslaughter charge against him.

Ray posted a $15 bond for his stop sign violation and was granted a continuation on this charge by Mayor Cramer until after his hearing before the grand jury.

Ill) of the House committee said he wants straightened out at the hearings — whether Eisenhower wants 400 millions or 600 millions or what amount in between.

Gordon said he wants to know also whether Eisenhower plans to step up U. S. armed forces strength in the Middle East.

There were no indications at the Pentagon Sunday that the Middle East plan contemplates any immediate change in the nation's defense lineup in that area.

THE MIGHTY CHRYSLER

Most glamorous car in a generation

It's triggered by a new TorqueFlite transmission

Want to pass a car or a truck on the highway? You don't have to kick the throttle to the floor. Just touch lightly... and ZOOM!

Want to get out in front when the light goes green? Relax! Count five, then toe the throttle. You'll still be out there alone.

Mighty in power... but mighty easy to control, too! That's the performance story of the new 1957 Chrysler. A superb new airplane-type V-8 engine that develops up to 325 horsepower with a new TorqueFlite transmission, pushbutton operated. This powerful combination gives you a magnificent new hi-velocity getaway from standing starts, great reserve power for passing when you need it and velvety smoothness. Yes, this 1957 Chrysler is every bit the streak of a car it looks to be. Come in and test it for yourself... compare it with any of the other new cars for power, performance, comfort and looks. More people than ever before are switching to Chrysler, and that puts us in excellent trading position to give you the best of deals on your old car.

Illustrated is the Chrysler New Yorker 4-Door Hardtop. The dual headlights, now permissible in all states, are optional equipment.
